Following is a summary of the speeches presented by this year's joint awardees President Anote Tong and Professor Modadugu Gupta. [Editors]

President Anote Tong Future Changes and World Peace

I want to extend my sincere thanks to Dr. Hak Ja Han Moon and all of you who are working to support the cause of world peace for gathering here today.

Today is a turning point for our world, this one and only earth which is our home. If we continue to pursue a short term gains without taking care to think about the results, we will destroy the earth, the only home that we have. The extent of influence of that damage is not limited only to the people of our own countries. It extends to all humankind.

The citizens of Kiribati, who live on a coral island only three meters above sea level, are facing a more critical time than we have ever seen before with the rising sea level, cyclones and extreme climate patterns. Our island, our home is heading to a point where people will no longer be able to live there, and this is not a problem that is limited to this century. We will be losing not only our home, but our identity as a people, as a culture, which means we are facing a big crisis concerning the future of our descendents. Now, Kiribati, along with Tuvalu, Marshall Islands, Tokelau, the Maldives and other low-lying coral island nations are engaged in a desperate struggle on the front line of the climate disaster.

However, there is hope. For the past several years, the international community has been discussing ways to halt climate change, and awareness of the climate crisis is spreading. It is clear that awareness is increasing. There is also clearly an international commitment to solving this problem.

While the onslaught of climate change moves quietly forward, it is easy to think, "Addressing the problem of climate change costs a lot, so let's leave it for the next generation," and do nothing. This kind of complacent thinking will make the danger of this threat to our security even more urgent.

We have all experienced the severity and frequency of climate change. We all hope it will not happen, but if natural disasters due to climate become more frequent, they will lead to widespread deaths and conflict all across the world and interrupt our forward progress.

For the sake of our descendents, we need to do more than be aware. We need to take action and find a comprehensive solution that provides peace and security without causing harm to anybody. We need to take action that secures the future of our planet and our worldwide community, and we need to take action that does not disregard any of our people. More than anything else, we must seek urgent action for the sake of the weakest people in the countries on the front line, to solve the existing problems and security problems resulting from climate change.

In fact, it is not possible for us to do this work alone, and in fact no country's people can exist apart from the rest of the world. As world citizens, we are all mutually responsible for this one world, and it is our moral responsibility as citizens of this age to protect the earth and provide for a good future for the coming generations

President Anote Tong Future Changes and World Peace Small-scale Food Production, Protecting the Food Supply and Peace

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation to the Sunhak Peace Prize Foundation and its founder, Dr. Hak Ja Han. Today I would like to speak to you about a secure food supply and world peace, with a focus on the role of small-scale food production as it relates to these issues.

Buddha has said that starvation is the most serious ailment of humanity. Poverty and hunger are the most serious problems facing developing nations today. Every day one out every nine people in the world go hungry. This is 13.5% of the population, about 800 million people, and most of them can be found in developing countries.

I think that by working to develop technology geared toward small scale food production we can provide the ways and means for those many people who do not have access to land to pursue marine food resources. According to the UN's Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) and International Labor Organization (ILO), among the more than one billion food production workers in the world, more than half are working as hired laborers, without land of their own. Also, among the world's 240 million child laborers, 60 percent of them work in food production, including fisheries and marine food production.

We have been able to bring a certain degree of solution to this problem by joining hands with NGO's who are working at the grass-roots level. We are working to connect the many people without land into groups of 5-10 people, providing them with motivation and education, and enabling them to rent public and private ponds where they can produce marine food products.

We have also developed simple technologies that allow children to work for food production without hindering their school education. With this kind of effort, we have made use of underutilized water resources and provided families without any land with a means of living. Using this means of access, we are introducing success in many countries in Asia and Africa.

When we talk about the green revolution, we are talking about saving millions of people from starvation by strengthening genetics and cross-breeding for food production. However, in the case of fish, especially in tropical areas, not much breeding has been done, and there have been insufficient resources to begin genetic research.

Therefore, we have been devoting our efforts to setting up a network of partnerships between the research facilities of advanced countries and those in developing nations in Asia, the Pacific and Africa in order to develop human resources and strengthen systems. Fast-growing varieties of fish have been developed, resulting in a large-scale increase in the supply of fish in developing countries.

For the green revolution to contribute to providing security in the food supply and nutritional level, and bring a better standard of living to the millions of people living in rural areas and developing countries, there is still a lot of work to be done. To accomplish this, countries must have appropriate strategies, developmental plans and suitable distribution of resources. In order to construct a peaceful world where all people can live in happiness, we must all gather together our strength to solve the problems of poverty, hunger and lack of nutrition. 🙏

The Collegiate Association for the Research of Principle in Korea (hereafter CARP Korea) held various events on the occasion of the third anniversary of the Universal Seonghwa of Rev. Sun Myung Moon, the True Parents of Heaven, Earth and Humankind. These events included the "2015 Special Summer Workshop" (hereafter Special Workshop), CARP's Journey for Hope, College Students' Visit to Mt. Baekdu and the First Competition for Church Songs. Among the events held by CARP to inherit True Parents' tradition and pioneer the future of the movement were the "2015 National Seonghwa Camp" and the "World Assembly for Youths and Students."

CARP Special Workshop participants renew their faith on the grace and blessing of Heaven

True Parents, during the morning Hoon Dok Hae session held on the first day of the 4th month by the heavenly calendar, directed the President of CARP Korea, Sang-Pil Moon to hold the "CARP Summer Workshop" for 500 members who recently joined the movement. Public officials and members of CARP Korea dedicated themselves toward preparing for the upcoming event, and witnessed to members to fulfill the mission given to them by Heaven.

CARP Korea's Special Workshop was held with the theme, "All are invited to CARP. We love True Parents eternally." True Mother also took great interest in the event that took place in the Blue Ocean Workshop Center in Yeosu. The Special Workshop was held five times from the 3rd day of the 5th month to the 9th day of the 6th month by the heavenly calendar (June 18 - July 24). A total of 537 members, consisting of 253 inactive members, 25 new members and 258 regular members, participated.

During the workshop, the participants could feel Heavenly Parent's love and guidance with them throughout the workshop. The staff members who prepared the event worried that they might not be able to do outdoor activities since the workshop schedule coincided with Korea's rainy season. Activities such as flying wind lamps, a pilgrimage to holy sites, a campfire, a bar-b-que party and ocean challenges were programs that required clear days without much wind. Many weather forecasts predicted rain and strong gusts of wind during the period the workshops were scheduled. However, Heaven allowed CARP Korea to hold the Special Workshop in good weather. The clear, temperate weather was perhaps one of Heaven's greatest graces bestowed upon the CARP members at that time.

The participants of the workshop renewed their vow to inherit True Parents' tradition and to shoulder the responsibility for the future of the Unification Movement in the Age of Substantial Cheon Il Guk. They also made a solemn resolution to establish the Cheon Il Guk realm of Culture of Heart.

Meanwhile, 100 members of CARP Korea joined as staff members in the "2015 National Seonghwa Camp" held at the World Jamboree Center over three days, from the 23rd day to the 25th day of the 6th month by heavenly calendar (August 7-9). They volunteered their time and sincere efforts for the Seonghwa students who may become dedicated CARP members in the future.

Journey to Mt. Baekdu in hopes of the reunification of Korea, and the pilgrimage to the holy sites

The "CARP Peace Road Journey to Mt. Baekdu" took place over five days from the 22th day of the 5th month by the heavenly calendar (July 7). The event took its participants to Mt. Baekdu, a mountain revered by the Korean people, as well as to Chinese cities located close to the North Korean border, such as Daeryeon, Dandung, Tonghwa, Hwaryong, and Jangchun. Held under the theme, "Oh, let the bright light of unification shine on our fatherland," 30 college students from Korea and Japan took part in the event.

The participants of this event visited the Ruisun Prison where Mr. Jung-Geun Ahn was incarcerated. Here, they paid their respects toward Mr. Ahn's noble patriotism and life of practicing his beliefs. They then prayed for the reunification of the Korean peninsula at Mt. Baekdu and on a train bridge that crossed the Abnok River.

After their visit to Mt. Baekdu, CARP Korea plans to unfold specific events geared toward fulfilling a peaceful unification. Some of these events include the Seminar for Unification and the Strategic Meeting for the Vitalization of the Unification Movement among Youths. These events are scheduled to begin during the second semester.

Meanwhile, the "CARP's Journey for Hope" participants traveled around the eastern and western coasts of Korean peninsula on the occasion of the third anniversary of Universal Seonghwa and the 70th anniversary of Korea's liberation from Imperial Japan. The event began on the 28th day of the 6th month to the 3rd day of the 7th month by the heavenly calendar (August 12-16). Held under the theme, "Our train moves forward with the hopes of peace and unification," 21 participants consisting of CARP members, potential members and public officials, joined the project.

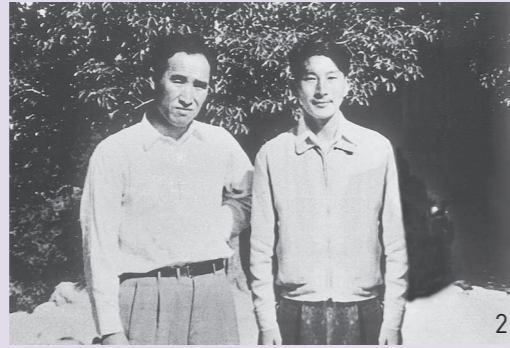

The 5-day "CARP's Journey for Hope" project took its participants to the Cheongpa-dong Headquarters church (currently used by the CARP Korea as a center) where True Parents conducted their ministerial works. The participants also went to the Blue Ocean Workshop Center in Yeosu, a holy site in our movement that represents True Parents' ocean providence. During their journey, they joined various events including the pilgrimage to the holy sites, the prayer session for the unification of Korea, a commemorative event for the 70th anniversary of Korea's liberation and helping local churches. They inherited True Parents' heart through such events, and they were able to engrave in their heart the ideal vision and dream of unification.

Each team that participated in the "CARP's Journey for Hope" came to Suncheon on the 2nd day of the 7th month by the heavenly calendar. There, they performed before crowds and marched the streets to commemorate the 70th anniversary of Korea's liberation. The citizens of Suncheon joined the students in shouting "Mansei" for Korea, and many of them showed great interest, some even taking pictures.

While marking the third anniversary of the Universal Seonghwa of Rev. Sun Myung Moon, the True Parent of Heaven, Earth, and Humankind, we want to introduce to you the sacrificial history of Japan. Japan, the mother nation, has been serving True Parents while they have been leading the providence of liberating God and saving humankind. We present this story to you in two parts. In Part I of this special publication, we will review the history of Japanese church, from the beginning years that were filled with difficulties, until the time that it had developed a nationwide foundation.

Study in Japan and First Imprisonment

The two and a half years (April 1941- October 1943) of study in Japan was indeed the special time in True Father's life, following his acceptance of the mission from God and up until August 15, 1945, the day when World War Two ended and became Gwangbokjeol or the National Liberation Day from the Japanese rule.

True Father arrived at Shimonoseki Harbor at 7:00 am on April 1, 1941. The voyage took approximately eight hours. Throughout the voyage, True Father offered prayers on the ship's deck, and not inside his room.

"Who will save these poor folks of Korea from their yoke? All throughout the night, looking up the stars, I offered my dedication with tears, longing for a day of people's liberation. I prayed to God for the Korean people, saying, "I am now leaving Korea, but until I return, dear God, please protect the people of Korea." (January 9, 1971)

True Father said that he could never forget the profound sentiment he held at that time. There was no trace of personal emotion as 21-year-old True Father left for Japan, but his heart was full of affection and anxiety for his country. On April 1, he stepped onto the land of Japan for the first time.

While True Father studied in Japan, he strove to promote Korea's independence movement, in addition to the pursuit of truth, undergoing diverse experiences to prepare for the future. True Father made the utmost effort to unite his own mind and body, before working to unite the nation or the world. He shed more sweats, blood and tears than anyone else. He knew very well that he could not guide a nation or the world without achieving full control over his own desires.

True Father graduated on September 30, 1943. He returned to Korea in October. When he had just started his life in Korea, based on a claim that he was a communist involved in the Korean independence movement in Japan, True Father was arrested. From True Father's point of view, he fought with God's heart of loving one's country and for the salvation of the world. As a result, he was caught and put through extreme torture. But True Father forgave and loved those who tortured him so severely.

The dawn of the Japanese church, a history of pioneering filled with obstacles

True Parents began to prepare to spread their teachings worldwide, after establishing the Holy Spirit Association in 1954. The first foreign nation where True Parents dispatched a missionary was Japan. Japan was a nation where True Father studied during his youth, and which later became the mother nation of the providence.

On May 30, 1958, in the town of Gapsa, Gongju, Chungnam Province, True Father made his decision to send Mr. Bong-chun Choi as the first overseas missionary. Father encouraged Mr. Choi, saying, "Even though what we are about to do is against this nation's law, heavenly fortune and the fate of this nation are above such laws made by humans. Those who understand the future of this people and this nation must open the path to salvation on their behalf. History will judge whether these actions are based on just beliefs."

On July 17 of the same year, Mr. Choi secretly boarded a smuggler ship in Busan and arrived in Japan near the port of Gokura. When it became difficult to disembark at Gokura, Mr. Choi offered heaven a sincere and tearful prayer. A vessel from the coastguard caught the smuggler ship on the sea of Kure, and Mr. Choi was arrested and sent to a jail operated by the Office of Coastal Security. He was relocated several times. From the Hiroshima prison, he was sent to the Yamaguchi prison. While he was being shipped off to the Shimonoseki prison, Mr. Choi escaped from the authorities and traveled to Tokyo.

Once in Tokyo, all that awaited Mr. Choi was bitter cold weather and hunger, but he vowed to continue his mission to pioneer Japan. Because he was an illegal alien, he had to be very careful and avoid being caught. However, Mr. Choi did not waver. He made an even stronger vow, "I will not die here. I will save Japan no matter what happens."

His earnest efforts at witnessing that began in April seemed to have borne fruit as he held the very first Sunday worship service in the history of Unification Church of Japan in Yukeisha on October 2, 1959. This was the first time the Unification Church had been established outside of Korea.

The Unification Church in Japan then spread from Yukeisha to Touwasha, Iidabashi, Shinoukubo, Suginamigu Mabashi, to a Multi-purpose Cultural Center. During this period, early core members such as Matsumoto Michiko, Sakurai Setsuko, Komuro Hiroyuki, Shiwaura Hideo, Sudo Ken, Kuboki Osami, and Oyamada Hideo joined the church. The Holy Spiritual Association for the Unification of World Christianity was registered with the Japanese government officially in July 1964. Kuboki Osami was appointed as the first president of the Japanese Unification Church.

Japan was the first place True Father visited on his first world tour

True Father arrived in Japan on January 28, 1965, on his first world tour aimed at restoring the world to God's side. This was his first visit to Japan in 21 years since he was a student. Japanese members welcomed True Father with loud cheers and sang the holy song, "Song of the Garden."

It was truly a moving experience for many. To the 250 members gathered at the church in Tokyo, True Father gave a speech entitled "God's Purpose and Our Purpose." While giving the speech, Father blessed the Japanese members, saying "Eternal God will shed grace over you and guide you," and asked them to "fulfill God's wishes."

During his tour of churches in Japan, True Father established holy grounds in eight places: Tokyo, Nagoya, Osaka, Takamatsu, Hiroshima, Fukuoka, Hokkaido, and Sendai. After establishing the holy grounds, True Father spoke a few words of blessing and further raised the members' spirits by singing the holy song, "New Song of Eden" with them. When it was time for True Father to leave Japan, he was sad to be parted from the Japanese members. Father sang many holy songs and consoled the hearts of the members who were sad to see him go. Father blessed them with his prayer by saying, "You will become the children who will offer fruits of victory to heaven."

True Father then traveled to North America, South America, Europe, Africa, the Middle East, India, nations in Southeast Asia, Hong Kong, and the People's Republic of China. True Father then visited Tokyo, Japan one more time on September 29, 1965, before his return to Korea. After attending a welcoming rally in Tokyo, True Father visited Hakone, Daiseikiji, and Itami. Then at the Waseda University CARP center, True Father spoke these words:

"I have been walking this path with my life on the line. I can't even count the tens of thousands of times I resolved to throw my life away. However, I did not live this kind of life so that I could be rich. I did not do it for honor. I did not do it because I yearned for someone. I did it because I knew God and His sorrowful heart."

A movement to revive Japan by spreading True Parents' teachings

In 1967, the Exposition of Divine Principle was published in Japanese. In the year that marked the 8th anniversary of the establishment of the Japanese church, the "Publication Ceremony for the Exposition of the Divine Principle" was held on October 2. Following that, the Koukensha publishing company was established on April 5, 1968. This paved the foundation for us to spread the Unification Principle to the Japanese people.

In 1961, a 40-day summer pioneer witnessing campaign was held in Japan for the first time. During the 40 days from July 20 to August 28, 1967, on the foundation of their knowledge of the Divine Principle, 937 Japanese members, with the guidance of True Father, joined pioneering activities and worked in 483 cities.

A pioneer workshop for the International One World Crusade, or IOWC, was held in Moriyama Workshop Center from November 27 to December 1, 1972. After the workshop had been completed, the participants embarked on their journey to 140 church centers on December 2.

A '100-day Workshop' for leaders was held from July 5, 1973. Workshops were organized on the basis of True Father's words, "Those who wish to become leaders in society, nation, and the world must possess three powers, the power of persuasion, the power of negotiation and diplomacy, and the power of business management." This workshop was held eighteen times since its beginning. The students learned the Principle, the theories of Victory Over Communism, and Unification Thought. They also developed their witnessing and managing abilities. After the eighteenth workshop, the workshops continued but were reorganized as 40-day workshops.

At the same time, then president Kuboki Osami went on a national tour from June 2, 1973, to May 12, 1974. In his visits to 124 places around Japan, he spoke on "Prophecy to Save the Nation" at rallies that were attended by over 170,000 people including renowned leaders from different fields. True Father later presented a plaque with a message written in his handwriting in praise of Mr. Kuboki's efforts.

Pioneer Witnessing & Nationwide campaign by One World Crusade

From November 27 to December 1, 1972, the pioneer workshop of One World Crusade was conducted at Moriyama Training Center (Nagoya), and on December 2, after graduating from the workshop, all the Crusade members left for the pioneer witnessing at 140 locations across Japan.

On January 24, 1975, a total of 360 members of the International One World Crusade (IOWC), representing 104 nations, arrived at Haneda Airport. The breakdown of the members: 102 Americans, 67 French, 52 Germans, 35 Australians, 25 Japanese, 25 Koreans and others. "Day of Hope" festivals were held at many locations throughout Japan, where international witnessing campaign was carried out.

The programs of "Day of Hope" Festival included an entertainment by New Hope Singers and Han Sung Dance Troupe as well as "Day of Hope" message given by IOWC Commander Genral, Park Bohui.

Toward the end of March, 1975, a total of 600 IOWC members including Japanese members visited South Korea. They supported festivals held at various locations throughout South Korea. "The World Rally for National Salvation" was held at Yoido Square in Seoul on June 7, when the overwhelming crowds of 1.2 million people attended the rally.

IOWC members arrived at Shimonoseki in 2 groups, on June 18 and June 20. They were divided into 6 teams, each team engaging in activities in different cities: Kagoshima, Fukuoka, Hiroshima, Tokushima, Osaka, and Kobe. Subsequently, they moved and continued their activities in: Yokohama, Kanazawa, Maebashi, Tokushima, Nagoya and Sapporo. On January 17, 1976, IOWC European Team arrived in Japan. Based on True Father's directive, Japanese One World Crusade (JOWC) was formed as a counterpart to IOWC on March 1, 1977. 🙏
